RED ROCKS CANYON TRAIL GUIDE

NOTE: When segments of trails are referred to by terms such as “upper” and “lower,” the reference is to altitude, not up or down on the map page.

Contemplative Trail: No bikes! Wanders between giant red-rock slabs rising nearly 100 feet.

Greenlee Trail: Lower section is moderately sloped. Upper section is very steep.

Intemann Trail: Occasional stair sections require dismounts. Follows contour of mountain, but has alternating short steep climbs and descents.

Little Fruita Ridge: Moderate grades, one very technical boulder field.

Lower Gravel Pit Connector: Direct route between Ridge Road parking lot trailheads and 31st St parking lot trailheads. Climbs sharply from Red Rock Canyon Trail, flattens, then climbs sharply to Old Gravel Pit Trail.

Lower Landfill Road: Goes through off-limits landfill.

Meadowlark Trail: Moderate grade rises from Sand Canyon Trail to Mesa Trail.

Mesa Trail: Lower section is moderate incline, middle section is flatter, upper section fairly steep with some big water bars.

Old Dump Road: Broad road climbs moderately from 26th St to Landfill.

Old Gravel Pit Trail: Climbs moderately from 31st St, then continues up gently to Upper Landfill Trail.

Post Loop: Some steep and technical sections both ways. Recommended to go clockwise.

Quarry Pass Trail: Road section is moderate grade. Single track from Mesa Trail to Greenlee trail is slippery and has lots of camber. Section from Greenlee to Red Rock Canyon Trail is steep and has mandatory dismount section.

Red Rock Canyon Trail: Road section is wide and very gently sloped. Hiking trail (upper section) gets very steep at the upper end. Rideable mostly, with many dismounts.

Red Rock/Gravel Pit Connector: Road section gentle, but single track section very steep for short distance.

Sand Canyon Trail: Gentle to moderate grades throughout.

Sand Creek Path: Sandy, narrow, periodic dismounts, connection at upper end to Sand Canyon Trail probably too difficult with bike.

Section 16 Connector: Snaky and with just enough grade to make it fun.

Section 16 Trail: Upper section too steep for climbing. Middle section relatively flat. Bottom section (to trailhead) moderately steep.

Upper Landfill Trail: Moderate grade. Deteriorated road with challenging ruts.

Eastern Valley Trail: Long gentle grade.

White Line Fever: Upper end fairly steep, loose conditions, lots of exposure. Lower end becomes little more than a deer path. Many forks on lower end go to private land. Stay left going downhill.
